Hiking in the Lodano Valley

SSML · Tuesday, March 12th, 2019

On Sunday, 17 March, the Luino branch of the Italian Alpine Club (CAI Luino) is organising a loop hike along a comfortable trail in the enchanting Lodano Valley, a side valley of the Vallemaggia, where traces of charcoal pits, some well-preserved mountains, and from different panoramic points, the majestic landscape of the Maggia River, can be seen.

The main occupations were alpine farming and the exploitation of the forest. In the mid-sixteenth century, the first logging and sale of wood was documented, and they continued until 1964. In the nineteenth century, there was an enormous flow of wood from the upper, Ticino valleys to Lake Maggiore, and then to the Lombard plain. This was also the case for the charcoal produced in approximately 200 charcoal pits inventoried. In 2010, a forest reserve of great scientific interest was established in the Lodano valley.

Route: Lodano 337m, Solada d Zòtt 689m, Canigèe 743m, Castèll 804m, Mognèe 899m, Capela d Pèdro 700m, Lodano 337m.
